Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: "will" needs deleted on page 1 at line 11.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by US 2004/0241040 A1 to Wei et al. (Wei).
4. For claim 1, Applicant requires a light-catalyst mechanism of an air cleaner, comprising a plurality of light tubes disposed in front of an air passage of a main body of the air cleaner within a holding room of the air cleaner; a filtering honeycomb net disposed in the holding room; the filtering honeycomb net having titanium dioxide applied over it; a supporting frame fixedly disposed in the holding room so that elongated spaces are formed between it and edges of the main body; the supporting frame having gaps thereon; the light tubes being securely fitted in the gaps of the supporting frame at two ends thereof; wires, which connect the light tubes to a power supply, being hidden in the elongated spaces; and a separating frame disposed around the supporting frame to cover the elongated spaces and to keep the light tubes and the filtering honeycomb net apart.

5. Wei discloses a light catalyst mechanism of an air cleaner 10. The mechanism comprises a plurality of light tubes 32 in front of an HVAC air passage (Figure 2) and a filtering honeycomb structure 28 with titanium dioxide coating thereon [0026]. A supporting frame is inherently present because otherwise the light source and filter would all just fall to the ground. The walls 38 of the structure hold the light tubes. Inherently, there is a power supply to the light tubes else they would not function. A separating frame is also inherently present because Figure 2 shows the honeycomb filter and light tubes separated.

6. For claim 2, Applicant requires stopping protrusions on the separating frame in the gaps to ensure the separation of the filter and light tubes. Inherently, there is some sort of stopping protrusion in the frame. If there were not stopping protrusion, the filter would not be held in place and would fall against the light tubes.
